MINUTES

September 17, 1980

I. Program:

The September 17 program was a special presentation given by Dr. Paul McRae of Northglenn Bovine Embryo Transfer Laboratory on embryo transfer. After the presentation there was a question and answer period.

II. Reports:

A. The meeting was called to order at 8:30 and was opened by the reading of the previous meetings minutes and were approved as read.

B. Treasurer's Report

1. Bank balance $291.33
2. Restricted fees $ 34.69

III. Old Business:

A. Oktoberfest--Club members were asked if there was any progress on collecting calf-fries for Oktoberfest. A committee was appointed to get items together to serve them at the booth.

B. Jr. Collegiate Judging Contest

1. A list of tentative judges for the contest was read and approved after the addition of several names.
2. Kent Colwell was to check on the use of Gross Memorial Coliseum for taking reasons, the Tiger Room for tabulations, and a lounge for team coaches.

C. Meetings

1. The next meeting was scheduled for October 1, but it was moved that it be used as a work meeting to clean fries for Oktoberfest. The motion was passed.

IV. New Business

- A. Group leaders for the annual F.F.A. Dairy Contest will be students from the Dairy Production class.
- B. Toward the end of the meeting a list was circulated for everyone present to sign and if a person was new they were to designate such.

The meeting was moved and seconded to be adjourned.

Respectively,

Sandra Mosier

Hog Roast

As the fall rolls around again it's time to think of Halloween, Thanksgiving, and the Annual Fort Hays State Block & Bridle Hog Roast. Last years hog roast on December 1, 1979 started a tradition of good food and fun for our club members and alumni.

There's nothing like taking a break from the routine to get together with friends and gorge yourself on succulent roasted pig, spicey baked beans, fresh salad, hot-buttered bread, and ice tea.

Last year was our first attempt to get past and present agriculture students together for a function, and it turned out very successful with more than 40 people attending.

The club charged $2.50 to defray cost and any money in excess was to be used at the discretion of Agriculture alumni for a scholarship. That night the alumni decided to put this money aside for a livestock judging team scholarship.

Everyone enjoyed themselves and we hope to continue our success this year.

FITTING AND SHOWMANSHIP SEMINAR

On April 16, 1980, the Fort Hays State University Block and Bridle Club and D Bar D Livestock Supply Co. hosted a fitting and showing seminar for local 4-H club members, F.F.A. members, and any other interested persons. Approximately 50 persons attended the evening workout.

The animals which were shown by Block and Bridle members included: a dairy heifer, a gilt, a ewe, a beef heifer, and a gelding. To begin with David Rorabaugh explained and demonstrated how to block and fit the beef heifer. Dr. John McGaugh (a faculty advisor) demonstrated how to fit and show a dairy heifer. Dale Younker demonstrated the proper way to show a hog and Dale Moore was in charge of showing the correct method of carding and cleaning a ewe. The evening was drawn to a close with Deb Strange demonstrating trimming and fitting a horse for competition.

Throughout the evening various grooming tools were used which were supplied by D Bar D Livestock Supply Co. Following the demonstrations all equipment displayed was shown how to be used properly.

As it was well attended, the Fort Hays State University Block and Bridle Club decided to make it into an annual event.

Ag Day chairman Dale Younker gives tabulated game results to Dr. Bill Jellison, Vice-President for student affairs, who presided as emcee for the games.

Agriculture Day

On April 11, 1980, the Fort Hays State University Agriculture Department and the Block & Bridle Club sponsored the First Annual Agriculture Day. Preparations for the day began in early January and since this was the first time, everything had to be done from scratch and at times it seemed almost impossible. Everything did fall into place though and the day's activities went smoothly.

Things got underway at 10:00 a.m. with registration and visitation in the Student Union. Myron Krenzlin from the Kansas Wheat Commission and Bill Duitsman, Secretary of Agriculture for the State of Kansas were the guest speakers. The 1980 Outstanding Fort Hays State University Agriculture Graduate award was bestowed upon Merlin Grimes of Great Bend, Kansas.

The afternoon's activities consisted of 12 games and tours of the University Farm began at 1:00 p.m. Competing in the games were 12 teams, of 10 members each, from various clubs, organizations, fraternities, sororities, and dormitories. The games included: a human tractor pull, horseshoe throw, barrel-rolling relay, cowchip throw, sack race, hot-pepper eating, milkmaid race, ski Kansas event, egg catch, barbedwire tie, loose-clothes thread, and an obstacle course.

The afternoon was cool and cloudy but there was an exceptional turnout to watch the games. Everyone had a great time and at the end of the day several of the teams were already making plans for next year.

1980 Range Cattle Show

The Agriculture Department at Fort Hays State University is constantly seeking means of promoting agriculture, livestock, and university involvement. A Range Cattle Show was held May 11, 1980, to generate not only interest in the University but also for area cattlemen to display their livestock. The show was held in conjunction with the KJLS Farm and Home Show and the cattle were displayed at the University Farm. Persons who viewed the livestock also had an excellent opportunity to view the farm facilities.

Gary Rolland, beef herdsman at the University Farm, was responsible for planning and promoting the show and was pleased with the turnout of exhibitors and spectators. The cattle were judged by the public and plaques were given out to the top 3 animals or groups of animals in each class. Classes were: herd bulls, bulls (two years and younger), spring cows and calves, fall cows and calves, and heifers (two years and younger).

Susan LeRoy, first in swine.

Everyone at their best in the beef class.

Little International

The Little International Fitting and Showing Contest was held April 27. This contest is open to all FHSU students. There are five divisions, including showmanship in beef, swine, sheep, dairy, and horse. The livestock are all from the University Farm. The top two in each division compete for the Grand Champion Showmanship award, and the winners are announced at the banquet that evening.

This year a record number 56 contestants were entered. The winners in each division were: Beef--Chuck Nicholson, Sheep--Mike Bamberger, Dairy--John Jones, Swine--Susan Leroy, Horse--Marcie Seibel. The Grand Champion Showmanship award was presented to Mike Bamberger, and Marcie Seibel won the Reserve Champion award.

Dr. John McGaugh, Block and Bridle advisor, presented the showmanship trophies at the banquet. Our speaker for the evening was Sam Paylor, who is the manager of the CK Ranch at Brookville, Kansas.

Larry Insley, livestock judging coach and Block & Bridle advisor presented the judging awards to the senior livestock judging team. Members included Roger Fuhrman, Craig Hoyt, Gayle Fletcher, Danny Kendall, and Kelly Wigginton. Mr. Insley also introduced Albert Graf, who was selected as an Honorary Block & Bridle Member. Our other honorary member, Harry Nielson, was unable to attend.

Dr. Garry Brower presented Block & Bridle awards to our Outstanding Senior, Dale Moore, and Outstanding Underclassman, Mike Shriwise.

Mike Bamberger, president, then presented awards to our advisors. A special award was given to Larry Insley, who was leaving Fort Hays after spending 4 years teaching at FHSU. The new officers for the next year were then introduced. They are, Randy Rhoads, president; Kevin Cedarberg, vice-president; Sandy Mosier, secretary; Helene Conarty, treasurer; and Roger Fuhrman, reporter.

OKTOBERFEST

On October 3, 1980, the Volga-German Society of Ellis County hosted the annual Oktoberfest celebration. Local clubs and groups are welcome to participate in this celebration by sponsoring a booth and selling something Volga-German in origin. There were a wide assortment of tasty foods, clothing, and of course beer for sale.

The Fort Hays State Block & Bridle Club was not to be left out. We sponsored a booth which sold "mountain oysters" and ice tea. Since our booth is the only one selling fries it's always popular.

This year the club bought 200 pounds of fries from a local supermarket. On October 2, the evening before Oktoberfest, a club meeting was held to clean the fries and slice them. This meeting typically is a good chance for the club to get together and have fun. This year was no exception, for the first hour or so there was a lot of grumbling and people dragging their feet but this soon passed when to everyone's delight we discovered the booth next to us was selling beer.

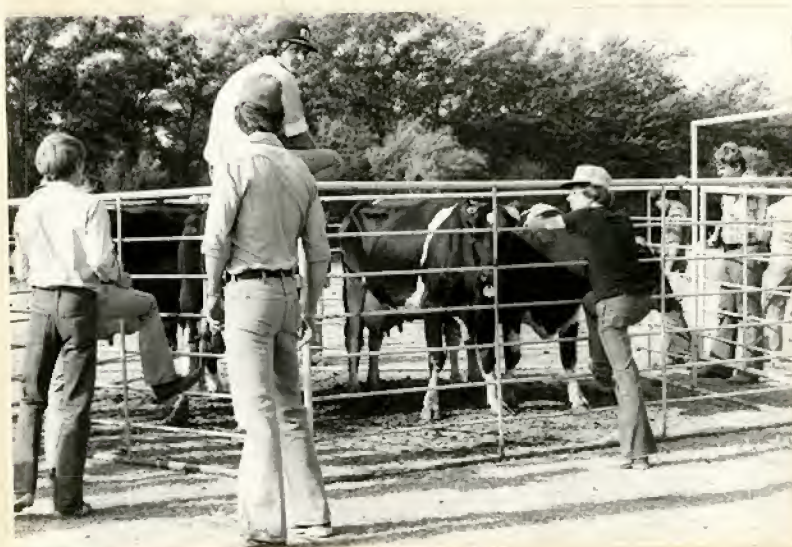

This year's Oktoberfest was rated a mild success since it was the first time in three years that a profit was realized. Selling began at 10:00 a.m. and by 2:30 p.m., all the fries were sold except those saved for a club party. Realized profits were only approximately $131.07. Next year, we hope to do much better by learning from our mistakes.

F.F.A. DAIRY JUDGING CONTEST

The Northwest Kansas District F.F.A. Dairy Judging Contest was held on the FHSU farm on September 23. The club members helped set up for the contest, served as group leaders, and reasons takers.

Gayle Pletcher works at setting up pens for swine.

Dr. John McGaugh mows pen areas in preparation for the Junior Livestock Judging Contest.

Jamie Powell, Kent Thalheim, and Mike Shriwise set up cattle panels.

1980 Block & Bridle
Junior College Judging Contest

The Fort Hays State Block and Bridle Club hosted 138 contestants from 15 schools from across the midwestern states. Schools from Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, and Wyoming converged on FHSU for one of the largest judging contests ever sponsored by the Block and Bridle at Fort Hays State University.

Many of the junior colleges utilize the Block and Bridle contest to prepare their novice teams for the new judging season. In the last few years the contest has grown in size from just five or six teams to more than 30 teams that competed in the 1980 contest.

We attempt to provide high quality, tough but placeable classes and yet still make the contest enjoyable. Another area that the club initiated an innovative idea was in a slide presentation of the classes during the official reasons.

When the contest begins, we have a club representative accompany a member from the campus Photo Services to take photographs of each animal in the contest. The photography lab processes the film immediately and presents the slides at the official reasons. We have received the positive support of the judging team coaches and hope that other clubs might incorporate the idea to help their own contests.

This contest is a lot of work, but it is the one project that brings more students to FHSU and exposes them to our own agriculture department. We feel that this can help our recruiting of new students when they finish their two-year programs.

We hope that next is bigger and better and hope that the participants in our contests have learned as much as we have.

Speakers

On September 17, 1980, Dr. Paul McRae spoke to the Block & Bridle Club. Dr. McRae received his DVM degree from Kansas State University and is now involved with embryo transfer procedures in cattle. His laboratory is located six miles north of Hays, where he is presently the only veterinarian in Kansas working on embryo transfer. Because of his extensive traveling and work in this area his slide show and talk proved to be most informative and interesting.

Some of our future speakers to the club will include a commodities expert, feedlot manager, area farmers, and a county extension agent.

HONORARY MEMBERS

The Fort Hays State University Block and Bridle Club utilized several criteria in selecting the 1980 honorary members. Foremost of the criteria was that the individual be an enthusiastic supporter of not only agriculture and higher education, but also of the Block and Bridle philosophy and activities. This year the Block and Bridle Club was honored to accept two distinguished gentlemen as honorary members; Mr. Albert Graf and Mr. Harry Nielson.

Mr. Albert Graf has been the dairy herdsman at Fort Hays State University for thirty-eight years. In this position, Al has guided many students to either start or to continue a career in the dairy industry. According to Al, in strong German accent,

"Young people in agriculture are our only hope and its our job to let them know how and why. I'm not any smarter than they are, I've just lived a lot longer." This is the basis of his relations with not only students but all people he comes in contact with and is an example of his dedication and the respect students, friends, and acquaintances have for him. The club, department, and university are equally proud to express their appreciation and respect for Mr. Al Graf. Shown in the picture above is Al Graf receiving his honorary membership award from Dr. Garry Brower.

Mr. Harry Nielson, Midland, Texas, is a respected and successful stockman, rancher, and oilman in both Kansas and Texas. Harry has long been a supporter of Fort Hays State University Agriculture Department and for the past several years has been the benefactor of the livestock judging team. He has made it possible for judging team members to travel and compete in distant contests. The livestock judging team along with the Block and Bridle Club and Agriculture Department greatly appreciate the contributions Mr. Harry Nielson has given.

Dale Moore

Outstanding Senior

Being named the Block and Bridle Club's "Outstanding Senior" has been one of the nicest rewards of my college career. I have attended Fort Hays State University for all four years and can say that the Block and Bridle Club has helped make those years more enjoyable.

Like most of the agriculture students at FHSU, I have been active in many activities on campus. I have been a Block and Bridle member for four years. I was president of the club during the 1978-79 school year. During the last four years I have seen the club involved in activities that have benefitted not only FHSU students, but also 4-H, FFA, and junior colleges by sponsoring many judging contests and fitting and showing clinics.

I also benefitted from the Block and Bridle as a member of the Senior livestock team. I feel that as a member of the horse and general livestock teams that I have experienced a great deal more in the animal science area than would have been possible without the help the club gives the teams for their many trips.

My major at FHSU is in Animal Science with a minor in Media Communication. This curriculum has given me an opportunity to bring the activities of the clubs that I belong to the attention of other students on campus.

I have worked four years in the beef unit of the University farm. This has given me valuable experience and knowledge of the animal science industry. I have also worked two years for the FHSU Photo Services and one year as a DJ for KFHS Radio. Through these I have learned the importance of good public relations to help promote the image of agriculture not only on campus but in the state as well.

Another of the activities that I have learned much from is being a project leader for my home-town 4-H Club. I have been project leader in the beef and photography projects and I feel that I have been able to pass on the things that I have learned to the 4-H'ers.

My rewards as a Block and Bridle member have included being named "Outstanding Underclassman" two years as well as "Outstanding Senior."

I have also been a member of the Rodeo Club four years, Delta Tau Alpha Honorary Ag. Society two years, and the Tae Kwon Do Martial Arts Club three years. I have been an officer in the Rodeo Club and in the DTA.

As I look back on my four years of schooling, I have to think that the Block and Bridle has made them more fun and I hope that I have contributed as much in return.

Mike Shriwise

Outstanding Underclassman

Our 1979-80 Outstanding Underclassman was Mike Shriwise. Mike is a junior from Jetmore, Kansas. He is majoring in Animal Science.

Mike has been active in our club for 3 years. He has been the chairman of the trophy committees for the jr. livestock judging contest, for Ag days, and for the Little International showing and fitting contest. He has also been involved in work for Oktoberfest, the fitting and showing contest for 4-H members, and the dairy judging contest.

Roger Fuhrman
Outstanding Junior

Roger D. Fuhrman was nominated as the Fort Hays State University Block and Bridle nominee for the National Block and Bridle Junior Scholarship. Rogers' versatility is exemplified by his diversified involvement in not only Block and Bridle activities but also member of Delta Tau Alpha, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Phi Eta Sigma, Junior Livestock Judging Team, Senior Livestock Judging Team, Student Senate (2 terms) and Campus Affairs Committee (2 years).

Furthermore, he had time during his three years in Block and Bridle to serve as chairman of the livestock selection committee for the Junior College Judging Contest, the setup committee for the 4-H and FFA judging contest and the junior college judging contest and Oktoberfest and the Block and Bridle Yearbook Committee.

In addition, Roger was the recipient of the Union Pacific Railroad Scholarship, Kansas Farm Bureau Scholarship, Fort Hays State University Academic Scholarship, the Outstanding Agriculture Freshman Award, Deans Honor Roll (3 years).

NEWS RELEASE

The Fort Hays State University Agriculture Department and its associated clubs have several activities planned for this spring. The first annual Ag Day will be held April 11. There will be a morning lecture series with featured speaker Bill Duitsman, Secretary of Agriculture for Kansas. Registration begins at 10:00 p.m. and the lectures at 10:30 a.m.

The afternoon activities will consist of competitive games to be held on campus. Teams of ten persons each will compete for cash prizes. The teams will be sponsored by clubs, fraternities, sororities, or dormitories within the university. The games will include: tractor pull, horseshoe throw, barrel relay, cowchip throw, sack race, hot pepper eating, miklmaid race, ski Kansas, egg catch, barbedwire tie, loose clothes thread, and an agriculturally oriented obstacle course. Everyone is welcome to attend both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The Block & Bridle Club will be sponsoring a fitting and showing class on April 16 to demonstrate how to properly fit and show different species of livestock. The class is open to anyone who is interested and no fee will be charged. The class will be held at the Fort Hays State University Farm in the Andrew Riegel Building at 7:00 p.m.

The Annual Little International Livestock Show will be held on Sunday, April 27 beginning at 2:00 p.m. Any Fort Hays State University student may and is encouraged to enter. Each student entered will select an animal via a random drawing. All animals except horses will be chosen from the university herds. It will be the responsibility of the student to care for his animal, prepare it for the show, and keep its stall area clean. Awards for top show-person in each class as well as overall, will be given that evening at the annual Block & Bridle Club Awards Banquet.

The annual Fort Hays State University Intercollegiate Rodeo will be held May 2, 3, and 4 at the University rodeo grounds. The rodeo is sponsored by the FHSU Rodeo Club and is always a popular event.

The Fort Hays State University Farm, in cooperation with the Block & Bridle Club, will be hosting and sponsoring the first annual range cattle show on Sunday, May 11. Cattlemen are encouraged to haul in and exhibit their best cattle, in range condition, and provide interested persons a chance to evaluate them. This is the same weekend as the Farm & Home Show and everyone is invited to attend both events.

Kansas teams take top honors

Fury, Paul Simpson, Steve Selbe, and Jody Reichel. Not pictured is Mark Miller. Selbe also placed first individually and Simpson, third.

Kansans won most of the honors, but a Cheyenne, WY team took home the top trophy in a fall livestock judging contest at Fort Hays State University.

The October event for community colleges attracted 138 contestants from 15 schools.

Students from Texas, Colorado, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Wyoming judged cattle, horses, hogs and sheep.

FHSU's chapter of Block and Bridle Club sponsors the contest annually as a warm-up for students to compete nationally.

Finishing behind Laramie County in overall team competition were four Kansas colleges: Seward County of Liberal, second; Barton County, Great Bend, third; Colby Community No. 2 of Colby, fourth; and Colby No. 1, fifth.

Others in the top five were Lorrie Hiser, Laramie County, second; Merlene Spencer, Seward County, third; Jody Reichel, Barton County, fourth; and Debbie Wallis, Laramie County, fifth.

In the reasons competition, contestants explained orally to contest judges why they rated one animal above or below another. Cloud County's team finished first, followed by Barton County, second:

Loy James, Cloud County

was high individual in reasons. Lon James, Cloud County was second; Jody Reichel, Barton County, was third; Lorrie Hiser, Laramie County, fourth, and Merlene Spencer, Seward County, fifth.

Other local team members and individual results are as follows:

Individual—hogs: Jody Reichel of Barton County was fourth. Cattle: Steve Selbe and Paul Simpson of Barton were first and second respectively. Horses: Ed Haselwood of Barton County was first. Team competition: Barton County placed first in cattle judging

First annual Ag Day labeled success

by DOUG CARDER
Staff Reporter

A presentation of the Distinguished FHS Graduate Award by W.W. Harris, chairman of the department of agriculture, marked the beginning of the first Fort Hays State Ag Day, in the Black and Gold Room of the union.

The award was presented to Merlin Grimes, a 1956 FHS graduate. Grimes is the owner of a 10,000-head feed lot in the Great Bend area. He has also served on the FHS Alumni Committee.

Harris said the award is based on outstanding service to agriculture and FHS.

"Grimes has made many contributions to agriculture and FHS. The award recognized these efforts," he said.

Following the presentation, a lecture series presented by Bill Duitman, secretary of agriculture, and Myron Krenzlin, administrator of the Kansas Wheat Commission.

Approximately 100 people listened to Duitman discuss the future of agriculture in Kansas. Krenzlin gave a presentation on trends in wheat marketing.

"We did not have as large of a turnout from the high school vocational students as we expected," Dale Yunker, Hays junior, chairman of the Ag Day Committee, said.

"However, we did receive a good turnout from other organizations on campus."

Ag Day '80 resumed at 1 p.m. with the Ag Day Games. The games were dominated by Wiest Hall and the Sigma Phi Epsilon Farm Team.

Wiest fifth floor captured first place, with the Sig Ep Farm Team and Wiest fourth floor placing second and third respectively.

Wiest fifth floor captured four first place finishes, winning the barrel relay, milkmaid race, egg catch and the loose clothes contest.

Wiest fifth also placed second in the tractor pull and ski Kansas competition.

The cowchip throw and obstacle course were won by the Sig Ep Farm Team. The team also placed in the tractor pull, horseshoe throw, barrel relay, sack race, hot pepper eating and the milkmaid race.

Wiest fourth floor obtained a third place finish by winning the horseshoe throw and ski Kansas competition. The team captured second in the loose clothes thread competition and third place finishes in the barrel relay, sack race and egg catch contests.

Yunker said the first Ag Day games were very successful in helping promote the FHS agriculture department.

"A lot of people from the community participated in Ag Day. We were pleased with the attention it brought to the agriculture department," he said.

Block and Bridle gives awards

The Block and Bridle Club's Showmanship contest and banquet was Sunday.

Awards to Fort Hays State students included: Beef Showmanship — Chuck Nicholson, Dodge City senior, and Kerry Tackett, Deerfield junior; Sheep Showmanship — Mike Bamberger, Jewmore senior, and Kevin Berger, Herndon freshman; Dairy Showmanship — John Jones, Hays junior, and Nick Paschal, Russell freshman.

Swine Showmanship — Susan Leroy, Great Bend junior, and Helene Conarty, Albuquerque, N.M., junior; Horse Showmanship — Marcie Seibel, Hays sophomore, and Helene Conarty, Albuquerque, N.M., junior.

The Grand Champion Showmanship Award was presented to Bamberger. Seibel won the Reserve Championship Award.

The Block and Bridle Outstanding Underclassman was awarded to Mike Shrivvie, Jewmore junior. The Block and Bridle Outstanding Senior Award was presented to Dale Moore, Copeland senior.
